

Now I title this: "Blogs for my Future domain"

When each year passes, I sometimes think about my past actions, and I'm like why tf did I do that? It's almost as if I gained consciousness just yesterday.

Recently, I realized it's mostly likely because my brain is still developing its prefrontal cortex!!! This is probably normal for everyone lol Also, remember the depressed phase I had last spring/summer? Again, it's because I'm a teenager. It's all starting to click now. It's also a reason why I don't have a lot of patience probably. Honestly, I just really want to lose weight. I'm hoping 5 lbs down by end of December. From now on, I'm not eating when I come home from school. I will take a nap and then eat, slowly.

It occurred to me that literally everyone lies on apps, so basically LOR's and essay are top priority.